WELCOME VOYAGEURS

Fine furs of fashion brought two centuries of hardy Voyageur canoeists into the inner reaches of this continent and helped open the west for settlement.

In this 100th year of Confederation their feats of endurance are being repeated by a new breed of waterways travellers --- the Centennial Canoe Pageant Voyageurs representing ten Canadian provinces and territories from coast to coast.

We welcome the Voyageurs to our community and trust their stay here will be a pleasant one --- and wish them well on the long arduous journey to Montreal.

The county area proposed by the Municipal Council would include the M.D. of Stony Plain No. 84, Local Improvement District No. 77 and the portions of L.I.D. 78 contained in the Provincial Constituency of Stony Plain. Mounted Police 94th Anniversary

On Tuesday, May 23rd, members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police observed the 94th anniversary of the Force. In this Centennial Year and as the Force nears its own Centennial, members will be looking back over these ninety four years with quiet pride.

The story and legends of the Force have been told many times and in many ways. One can muse over that morning of November 3, 1873, at Stone Fort (Lower Fort Garry), when A.H. Griesbach, Percy Neale and Samuel B. Steele were the first three men sworn in as members by Lt. Col. Osborne Smith, who was temporarily Acting Commissioner.

The necessity for the establishment of a law-enforcement agency to police the western wilderness was clearly recognized by the Canadian Government. On May 23, 1873, Prime Minister John A. Macdonald signed the Bill creating the Northwest Mounted Police, who were charged with maintaining law and order in the Northwest Territories.

Initially it was intended to establish a Force of 150 men, comprised of three troops of fifty men each. It was soon realized that this number would be inadequate for the task at hand, bearing in mind that the area they were entering was virtually unknown.

Forthwith, the strength was doubled and on July 8, 1874, the entire Force of six 50-man troops struck out westward from Fort Garry on what the annals of history have often referred to as the "march westward" or "The Great March."

From that day to the present time the Force has 8,250 regular members and is responsible for the policing of eight of the ten provinces of Canada, and the Northwest Territories.

The hardships, handicaps and obstacles the Officers' and men had to cope with can scarcely be comprehended today. The thought of feeding 300 men, apart from caring for hundreds of horses and cattle, challenges the imagination.

Prior to pulling out from Fort Garry and before Commissioner French gave the order to march, he issued a different order which was to result in the setting of a solid foundation on which the morale and future traditions of the Force were built. At a Full Dress Parade he delivered an ultimatum to the effect that:

"He wanted no dissatisfied men in his Force, if any were dissatisfied let them speak now and go and no effort would be made to stop them. Of those who remained he would demand that neither hardships nor suffering nor privation nor fear of death, any or all of which they might expect, should move them by a hair's breadth, from carrying out the duties the Force would have in hand."

With courage, determination faith and tact, the initial task was accomplished in an outstandingly commendable manner. The same determination, faith and loyalty is expected from the men who serve today, under different though still trying circumstances. As this country progresses and enters its second century we can confidently expect that future members will devotedly continue to "Maintiens Le Droit".

COMPETITIVE CROP

Field tests in Alberta have shown over the years that barley is a better competitive crop against weeds, such as wild oats, than are other cereal crops.

W. Lobay, Head of Weed Control and Municipal Plant Industry Programs with the Alberta Department of Agriculture, reports that about 158 million bushels of barley were produced in this province last year. Varieties eligible for C.W. grades accounted for about 51 per cent of this figure.

The importance of barley production in Alberta cannot be overemphasized when one considers that weeds cause greater losses to the agricultural industry than animal diseases, plant diseases, insects, and other crop hazards.

Plans Progressing for Amateur Rodeo to be Held July 22

The Maverick Roping Club will meet at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday, May 24th to advance plans for the amateur rodeo to be held here on July 22nd. The meeting will be held in the Rec Room at the Centennial Civic Centre (tonight).

Bud Swartz and Jim Isberg, who are working out parade details, say that response has been good and they look forward to another good parade. There is a possibility that Klondike Kate will again be here for the parade. CFCW will broadcast the parade and at the rodeo grounds.

Prospects are bright for a good attendance at the rodeo which is the only amateur event listed for July 22nd in Alberta. Depending on results this year, a two-day show is contemplated in the future.

A jackpot event is scheduled for the Sunday following the rodeo with local riders and any others who might stay in town after the Saturday show. In the jackpot events riders compete against each other with their entry fees as prize money.

Work on the grounds is reported to be progressing favorably. Levelling and root-picking is going on at the present time and it is expected that construction of fences and corals will start on the weekend. Interest in the rodeo is being expressed from outside the area, the latest being enquiries from Fort Macleod.

The roping club staged a very successful dance at Rocky Rapids on May 12th and plan one or two more before the rodeo date to help raise operating funds.

Centennial Report

1867 1967

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

If Ottawa happens to be on the route of your Centennial trip this year, be sure to see Son et Lumière, a nightly show from May 13 to October 15.

Son et Lumière, which means sound and light, is a special Centennial spectacle for the national capital, staged on Parliament Hill. Outdoor amphitheatre seating has been constructed at Nepean Point, on the Ottawa River, offering a spectacular night view of the Parliament Buildings which constitute the stage for Son et Lumière.

There are no actors, no constructed stage, no film. It's all done by the clever use of spotlights, filters and pre-recorded sound. Recreation of the 1916 fire on Parliament Hill, for example, produces the smoke and flames, the crackling of timbers, the sound of the water hoses and firemen's voices, all through the ingenious mix of sound on seven-track recording tapes and color filters on spotlights.

The Hill has the starring role because the spectacle is a drama of Canadian history and because The Hill was the symbolic stage for Confederation's official beginning in 1867.

In the Son et Lumière audience at Nepean Point you will be transported through time, your intellectual and emotional responses controlled by the strength and variety of light and the impact and quality of sound, including music and the voices of great and legendary persons. By way of the unusual techniques of "Sound and Light", the drama of Canada's early days, her triumphs and failures, her great men and their great deeds, will come vividly to life.

As Son et Lumière opens the clock turns back over 350 years to the time when Champlain was voyaging up the mighty Ottawa. Lights dim and glow and the voices of narrators move through time to the establishment of old Bytown and the building of British military barracks on the present site of the Parliament Buildings.

The spectacle moves its audience through great events in history: the union of the two Canadas; Confederation celebrations of July 1, 1867; occasions when we hear the oratory of Macdonald and Cartier; the joining of more provinces and the territories; the world wars; the burning of the Parliament Buildings in 1916; the high points in the careers of prime ministers; and the birth of our national flag.

As the spectacle moves to a finale, lights turn to full brilliance, illuminating the Hill, Parliament Buildings, Nepean Point and the Rideau Canal. The spectacular finale symbolizes the essence of a Canada 100 years in Confederation, facing the new century with faith and confidence.

The Son et Lumière technique was originated at the Chateau Chambord in France and has been employed in other places of historic importance in France, Greece, Egypt, Great Britain and Spain. It also has been employed at Dundurn Castle, Hamilton, and at the Chrysler Farm battlefield, Morrisburg, Ontario. As a Centennial spectacular it is one of the regular attractions of the National Capital which every visitor should see.

Teen Camps Planned At Goldeye Lake

The Junior Farmer's Union of Alberta camp at Goldeye Lake, 110 miles west of Red Deer, will again this summer be the scene of a series of Teen Camps for the young people of rural Alberta. Beginning in July, five one-week Teen Camps followed by a one-week Graduate Seminar are planned.

Persons from 16 to 20 years of age are eligible to attend the Teen Camps and can be sponsored by local organizations. The total cost, including transportation, is $25 per student.

The Goldeye Lake Camp program is sponsored by the Farmers' Union and Co-operative Development Association, and administered by the Assistant Director, Gerald Schuler. Planning responsibility and provisions of staff members are shared by the following organizations: Alberta Wheat Pool, Central Alberta Dairy Pool, Federated Co-operatives Ltd., Farmers' Union of Alberta, Farm Women's Union of Alberta, Junior FUA, United Grain Growers Ltd., United Farmers of Alberta Co-operative Activities Branch of the Province of Alberta.

Based on the theme "Build a Character-Build a Nation" the overall objectives of the Teen Camp are to develop in the individual through group participation, (1) responsibility, good citizenship and leadership qualities, (2) an understanding of co-operatives and their role, (3) an understanding of rural and urban organizations, and (4) fellowship and community living.

A one-week Graduate Seminar will be held for top students from previous years' teen camps. Chosen for their leadership potential, these students are awarded scholarships to attend the Seminar.

EVANSBURG

Mrs. M. Bruner, Correspondent

Again two days spent in the city undergoing medical tests made me miss the mail delivery for last week's news report. However with all the political ads we see there is plenty of reading material in the paper these days.

These warm days see the farmers out early and late working in the fields. It is to be hoped that all the necessary crops are put in before the rainy spell comes. I imagine that most all the gardens are being planted as well.

The Agricultural Society held their regular meeting at the Taylor home recently. A very pleasing number of the directors attended. Much discussion took place on the purchase of the lighting plant that has been made and it was hoped that it would be put in working order right soon. Tickets for sale by the candidates for king and queen were distributed.

The 4-H club members held their meeting at the O'Honesty home last week. Many projects to be worked on were discussed. The seed for the forage plots as well as the grain plots was distributed. Plans for a further meeting for discussion on the building of a parade float were made. The next meeting is to be at the Hutchinson home. Some of the members went to a 4-H Council meeting at Duffield where they made plans to have a work bee at the Crippled Children's Camp on June 3rd.

Not very many people attended the Centennial meeting held at the Evansview School recently. However, most committee members were there and many problems connected with the Centennial Caravan were discussed. Main topic was the matter of the dusty access road into the town from the highway.

Congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. John Schroder who were married recently. Mrs. Schroder is the former Miss Donna Callioux of Wildwood.

The schools, both elementary and Junior-Senior high, held their eliminations day for the track meet last Friday. The successful candidates will then go on to the Edson Division Eastern End meet to be held in Wildwood on June 26th to compete for trophies.

Little Miss Sherry Osborne has been a day visitor at our home for the past week while her mother has been in the Drayton Hospital.

The Boy Scouts and their parents all attended the annual bean supper at the Legion Hall last Thursday. This is an annual affair and generally precedes the camping out activities of the boys. At the present time the Cubs are practising for the various events they will compete in at the Cubaree to be held at the Pembina Park on June 3rd. The Scouts are brushing up on their camping techniques they will use when camping at the Tuke farm this weekend.

The Senior High school students held their annual Prom last Friday. The auditorium was very nicely decorated in the Hawaiian theme and a very good time was reported by all.

School Board Briefs

It was brought to the attention of the Board that the Stony Plain School playground is getting so congested that there is not enough room for children to play. This matter was left in abeyance until the completion of the present construction.

It was decided to have the whole Board go to the Stony Plain Schools on an inspection tour.

It was mentioned that considerable difficulty is being experienced at the Seba Beach school with sewage disposal. The field is not functioning properly and the septic tank has to be pumped nearly every week which makes it quite costly.

It was moved and carried that the Board investigate the possibility of constructing a lagoon at Seba Beach.

Mr. F. Hannonchko, on his report to the Board, advised that to date there were 20 staff resignations and 11 new appointments.

It was moved and carried that the Divisional Board approve the holding of a track meet in Drayton Valley on Friday, May 19th.

It was moved and carried that the seeding of grass at the Drayton Valley Junior High School be left to Mr. J. W. Tyler at a cost not to exceed $250.

Mr. Hannonchko reported that no candidate is available to attend the Principals' Leadership Course to be held this summer.

The council of the Town of Drayton Valley requested a half day holiday on the afternoon of May 25th for the Centennial Voyageur Canoe Pageant.

It was moved and carried that the afternoon of May 25th be declared a school holiday for the children in the Drayton Valley schools.

Principal of the Drayton Valley Junior High School, Mr. D. E. Humphreys requested a grant of $100 for swimming classes. This request was not granted.

It was moved and carried that the following staff resignations be accepted: John Convey, John Marsh, T. McManus, Annette Hutson, Maureen Ross, Margaret Savitsky, and Jean Quigg.

It was moved and carried that Felix Knor be instructed to do the required painting at the Seba Beach School.

It was moved and carried that the following painting tenders for Drayton Valley be ac-

R. C. Schurman of Drayton Valley.

It was moved and carried that the windows in the Drayton Valley Elementary Gymnasium be blocked out.

Mr. L. W. Kruger, Principal of the Memorial Composite High School, came to see the Board regarding various functions at the school.

The Board informed Mr. Kruger that they were not prepared to discuss the proposed Policy Handbook because of lack of time to study it.

It was moved and carried that the Divisional Board purchase from Calgary Power the electric stove in the Stony Plain Home Ec. Room for $135.90.

It was moved and carried that Mrs. M. A. Ivan be allowed $100 for landscaping at the Wabamun school.

Protest Convictions

Thomas B. Moss, presiding minister of the Drayton Valley Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, reported today that 35 members assembled for the weekly ministry school session at the Kingdom Hall unanimously approved a public protest of the conviction of Jehovah's Witnesses in Portugal.

This was the response of the local congregation to a report presented by Moss on recent developments in an appeal by the Witnesses in Portugal against their conviction in the Supreme Court. Forty-nine Portuguese Witnesses, the entire adult membership of the Feijo congregation, had been arrested while attending a Bible meeting in June of 1965.

Of the forty-nine convicted thirty-nine received terms of one and a half to five and a half months. Ten were given suspended sentences but all were fined from forty-seven to one hundred seventy dollars together with court costs of thirty five dollars each.

Communities Plan Picnic

Plans have been announced for a combined picnic of residents of Warburg, Breton, Thorsby and Calmar on Friday, May 26th.

The picnic will be held at the old Genesee Ferry site on the North Saskatchewan River where viewers will have the opportunity of watching the passage of canoes taking part in the Centennial Canoe Pageant. The canoeists are expected to start passing the site at about 11:00 a.m.

Forest Fire Season Approaching

Warnings to residents of settlement areas in Alberta that the season of fire danger is here, have been issued by the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests. Permits to burn brush piles or accumulations of waste from land-clearing operations must be obtained from the nearest forestry or municipal official, who will inspect the site where necessary to see safety precautions are observed.

Forest fire destruction during 1966 was the second highest of the decade, with 370 fires burning over 69,974 acres, the Alberta Forest Service reports. Suppression costs were $1,586,852. In 1961, when an all-time high number of 811 fires were recorded, 193,545 acres were burned and suppression costs reached $2,365,862.

The worst year for destruction was 1956, when 694,480 acres were ravaged in 258 fires. The best recent year was 1962 when 278 fires burned only 4,506 acres.

Last year two major fires accounted for almost two-thirds of the total acreage burned. Both were in the Footner Lake Forest in the North-west of the province and both were started by lightning in mid-June.

Of the 11 Alberta Forests, Footner Lake had the heaviest loss, with 67 fires accounting for 52,857 acres. The others were: Athabasca, 11 fires, 6,230 acres; Lac La Biche, 35 fires, 4,538 acres; Peace River, 45 fires, 3,538 acres; Slave Lake, 90 fires, 1,524 acres; Whitecourt, 37 fires, 1,004 acres; Grande Prairie, 14 fires, 182 acres; Bow River, 14 fires, 32 acres; Clearwater-Rocky Mountain House, 35 fires, 29 acres; Edson, 18 fires, 13 acres; Crowsnest, 5 fires, one acre.

Of the total 69,974 acres burned, 3,138 acres were on private land, 30,838 acres were non-productive land. The remaining 35,998 acres were productive forest land.

Lightning continues to be the leading cause of fires, according to the 1966 reports. Lightning caused 107 fires, 29 per cent of the total number and 84 per cent of the total destruction. Causes associated with various industries accounted for 26 per cent of the fires but only 3 per cent of the loss. Recreation and settlement caused 32 per cent of the fires and 9 per cent of the loss. There were 35 incendiary fires, 9 per cent of the total and 3 per cent of the loss.

May and June are the months of greatest fire hazard, and last year almost 98 per cent of the year's fire losses occurred in those months. At the start of the season, carelessness in burning brush accounts for most outbreaks, and in June lightning takes over as the major cause.

Teen Drivers Meet Saturday

The Alberta provincial teenage safe driving championship contest will be held at Taber, Alberta, Saturday, May 27th according to Lyle Manery, president of Alberta Jaycees.

A major change in the championship is being made this year with the co-operation of the Alberta department of highways, safety division high school driver training branch, and the sponsors of the provincial contest, Imperial Oil Limited.

This year, the first high school trained teenage drivers under the department of highways high school driver education program will graduate and the top driver from each school will be eligible to compete at the provincial championship contest on May 27th.

It is estimated that 45 contestants will be meeting at Taber to compete for the provincial title.

Imperial Oil Ltd., as sponsor for the provincial contest underwrites the cost of bringing contestants to the provincial match, all expenses at the match and trophies and prizes.

D. V. Highlights

BY MRS EDITH DEBY

It is with regret that we learned last week of the death of Mrs. Claude Free's mother. Please accept our deepest sympathy, Mrs. Free.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Hanon and Barbara and Neil visited Mrs. Hanon's mother, Mrs. Edith Dunnington, on the weekend.

It will be a long time before I forget my disappointment in not seeing Mrs. Belinda Alton when she visited Drayton Valley recently. Mrs. Alton worked on the switchboard here for some years until the automatic system was installed and hearing her cheery "Yes, Ma'am" was a fine way to start a day.

Mrs. Edward Hill is a patient in the University Hospital where she has had an operation. We join with Mrs. Hill's many other friends in wishing her a speedy and complete recovery.

Since the Erickson trip to Sweden will be of interest to many of the Review's readers I shall quote a card received from Edwin last week in its entirety. "We arrived in Oslo Norway, on May 12. Then we travelled to Stockholm where we are now staying. We plan to go to Finland and Denmark next week and then to Northern Sweden. This is a beautiful country and I think it would be O.K. if I stayed here."

Ever since last fall the Herndons and Gregersons conversations were apt to start with "When we go to Expo". This week they are away. For the most part the trip will be a leisurely one and we may expect to see the travellers back in July. Mr. and Mrs. M.M. Hamilton, former residents of the Violet Grove district, have come back to care for the Herndon's place and we shall be hoping for a visit with them.

Mrs. Lindsay Johnston is in B.C. for a short holiday. She will spend some time in Kamloops and then go to the Johnston's summer camp on Shuswap River.

Mrs. Emma Hill has returned to her farm home at Violet Grove. Each winter Mrs. Hill goes to stay with her daughter near Camrose. Each spring Mrs. Hill's return is one of the harbingers of the season that her friends anticipate with pleasure.

Remember Jack and Aline Frank? Last week a gentleman from Drumheller visited the library and told us that the Franks are doing very well in their business and that Aline had a most successful year in bowling having reached the finals in Winnipeg.

Mr. Albert Stordalsvoll, now of Creston, will be arriving soon to spend some time on the family farm at Pembina.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kynoch spent a couple of months with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Block, on Cortes Island, this winter. The Blocks like their new location very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Skavlebo visited many B.C. points recently. They called on Mr. William Staire at Abbotsford and found him very well. On the return trip the Skavlebos stopped off at Yakk where Mrs. Skavlebos had lived as a child.

HISTORY OF ARMED FORCES

As one of the observances of centennial year the Department of National Defence is publishing a 270-page history, The Armed Forces of Canada, 1867-1967, which will be available late this spring.

For the first time, the story of Canada's Navy, Army and Air Force from the year of Confederation to the present day is told in a single book, designed to appeal to a wide readership. Edited by Lt. Col. D.J. Goodspeed, senior historian of the Canadian Forces' directorate of history at Ottawa, the new book contains 250 photographs, including 35 in color, some of which are reproductions of paintings in the National Gallery of Canada.

Souvenir Coin Sales

Local business places were approached this week by members of the Drayton Valley Lions Club with a request that the Lions Centennial Souvenir Coins be used as much as possible during the canoe festivities this week.

Lions hope that many visitors to the community will want to obtain the coins as mementos of their visit to Drayton Valley for the Voyageur Canoe Pageant.

The club reports a brisk sale of coins by coin shops in many parts of the country. The coins are acceptable as $1.00 in currency by Drayton Valley merchants handling them for the Lions Club and are redeemable for $1.00 at both banks in Drayton Valley until December 1st, 1967.

How will the anecdotes of the "good old Centennial Year" be received by the grandchildren and great-grandchildren of the present generation.

CDA HELPS CONSUMER TOO

Many of the measures taken by the Canada Department of Agriculture to help farmers also help the consumer public.

This is something that isn't always appreciated — that the departmental programs designed to assist YOU, also benefit the non-farming public. Only a few years ago the popular image of the farmer suggested that you were the ONLY beneficiary of a great many farm policies supported by the taxpayer. Experience is showing to the contrary — that the consumer-taxpayer is getting as much benefit, relatively, for his dollars spent on agriculture by government.

Look at the programs for the control of contagious animal diseases, for instance. It would be hard to estimate how much money has been spent in fighting tuberculosis and brucellosis. We haven't eliminated these problems but we've gone a long way. Today there is so little tuberculosis in our herds that there is more danger of cattle catching it from man than vice versa. Brucellosis too, thanks to slaughter, vaccination and regulation, is well under control; good news for cattlemen and good news also for people who could catch the disease (in the form of undulant fever) from infected animals or their products.

FOR GOOD HEALTH

Healthy animals mean healthy food which, in turn, means healthier consumers. Nearly 3,000 professional and trained staff are employed by CDA in the inspection and grading of food. This extends from inspection in the field and barn, in the packinghouse and processing plant, through wholesalers, to the shelves and display counters of the retail stores.

These services establish confidence in the buyer which the farmer needs to market his output; but they also assure that the consumer will get a wholesome product that conforms to proper standards of quality, condition and packaging when it reaches the retail shelf.

The Board of Grain Commissioners, which is responsible to CDA, makes elaborate studies of the grains you harvest each year. Chief aim of this research is to keep close watch on the quality of these important export crops, but it also helps give Canadians the best wheat flour in the world.

The Food Research Institute widens the outlet for farm products by assisting food processors to solve processing and merchandizing problems. The benefits of the Institute's work invariably are passed on to the consumer in the form of better or more convenient food products.

CDA has devoted a great deal of time and money on research to establish the safety and effectiveness of the insecticides, herbicides and fungicides developed for agriculture. This knowledge is passed on to hundreds of thousands of Canadian homeowners who collectively spend large sums and many happy hours in gardening for pleasure. The research that leads to safe and efficient use of sprays in orchards and barns also guarantees that the contents of aerosols or pressure cans are safe for use in the house against insects. And the same regulations that apply to fertilizers for the commercial producer protect the fertilizers we buy for our back gardens and front lawns.

All plant material imported into Canada is inspected for freedom from disease and all incoming cargoes by land, sea and air, are checked to prevent new diseases and insects from entering the country.

HELPS STABILIZE PRICES

Even price support programs for farm products are a form of protection for consumers because they help stabilize prices at the producer level. Big fluctuations at that level could adversely affect the consumer.

While our new dairy policy is designed to encourage farmers to maintain an adequate supply of milk for greater financial returns, consumers will also be beneficiaries of this policy. With more milk available for dairy products, particularly butter, the consumer is protected from the higher prices that would inevitably result from shortages.

Some CDA services are directly slanted to the general consumer public rather than to the farmer. Publications of particular interest to the home owner and offered without charge range in subject from flowers and shrubs to the best food buys of the month and different ways of preparing Canadian dishes for the family.

You, the farmer are a consumer on a large scale. An understanding of the way in which farm legislation meshes with consumer protection helps you to appreciate the other side of the picture and reminds the urban dweller that he has a personal tie-in with many of your farm programs.

Adult Training Program Makes Better Jobs Possible

Many more Canadians now have the opportunity for re-training for a better job. This is the effort of the new federal program that began on April 1st.

The new program means that every person in Canada who has been out of school for more than a year can benefit from re-training. The federal government will pay the whole cost of occupational training for anyone who will be able as a result to do a better job. This includes immigrants equally with long-term residents and citizens.

The new program replaces previous arrangements under which re-training was available only to workers who were unemployed or who fitted various special categories.

In order to take training most adults must be provided with an income while training. This is fully covered in the federal program by means of training allowances.

These allowances are a minimum of $35 a week and considerably more, up to $90 a week, for workers with dependents to support.

The only restriction on these allowances is that they are not to be used to compete with the school system. They are designed for re-training not to make training a substitute for school.

Therefore, to qualify for allowances as well as free training, a trainee must either have dependents or have been working or seeking work for the past three years.

These facts were made public in October of the last federal-provincial conference. It was made clear that there was nothing to prevent any province from offering allowances to younger people without dependents if it so wishes.

From the start, the new program will train at least as many workers as the former program did. The federal government is providing larger funds, and as the provinces provide more facilities, an increase in number of people will benefit.

Dancing Registration

All pupils who are presently attending classes in the Gloria Blair School of Dancing and anyone who is interested in starting classes in September are asked to be present on registration day, May 29th at 8 p.m. in the Civic Centre.

Classes will be available for all ages in Ballet, Tap, Modern Jazz, Ballroom, Acrobatics and Baton.

A meeting will be held following registration to discuss plans for the Dance Review to be held on June 29th.

Fish Derby Sunday

The annual fish derby by members of the Lutheran Church in the area was held Sunday at the Lake Isle Lutheran Youth Camp.

Winner of the trophy for the largest fish was Mrs. Frank of Jasper Place with Otto Nickel of Drayton Valley awarded a crying towel for the smallest.

Church members from Drayton Valley, Tomahawk and Edmonton attended the outing.

Early Bird Swim Club Seeks Members

Anyone interested in swimming before breakfast, please get in touch with Hugh MacLure or Al McKillop. This would be from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. and enough members are required to raise the $150 cost involved in operating the pool for this extra time.

This is almost the only time of day available for adult swimming and some of us feel that an expensive amenity such as the pool, although open for an ever shorter season each summer, should at least be available for those who want it during the only time when they are free to swim.

Visiting Home

Cpl. Brian Bannard who is stationed in Richmond, B.C. is spending a week's holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Len Bannard.

"I don't know about full capacity", replied the pastor, "but we sleep 1,400 every Sunday morning."

PADDLE RIVER STUDY

A preliminary PFRA engineering feasibility report has revealed that proposed reservoirs to control flooding within the Paddle River flood plain together with adequate drainage facilities would cost an estimated $7,032,000.

The study done on behalf of the Water Resources Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture, was released recently by Agriculture Minister Harry E. Strom. PFRA was given the task of investigating the feasibility of storage reservoirs in the main and principal tributaries to provide protection against floods on the Paddle River flood plain.

The PFRA study shows that with a system of four reservoirs at an estimated cost of $6,732,000 plus additional drainage works at $300,000, it is feasible to control flood flows so flooding would occur one year in 25.

The study shows that flooding in eight of the past 20 years caused serious losses in area agricultural production. In six of these years, agricultural production was totally lost.

Aerial photography used to plot the extent of flooding in 1965 show that the total area flooded amounts to approximately 20,000 acres. Of this total, 13,500 acres are under cultivation, improved forage meadows, natural hay meadows and pastures. The report suggests that the proposed reservoirs would reduce the occurrence of bank overflow from and average of one in three years to one in 25 years.

A cost-benefit study encompassing the Pembina river and Paddle river systems is expected to be completed shortly, Walter Solodzuk, chief engineer, Water Resources Division, said. This report will serve as an economic basis for deciding whether or not to build the proposed Paddle River reservoirs.

The Paddle river is a tributary of the Pembina river and flooding conditions in the Pembina occur simultaneously with flood flows in the Paddle River. Additional engineering studies are being conducted by the Water Resources Division on the two river systems with equal attention to the Pembina river as this is included in the Alberta water plan, Mr. Solodzuk said.

The proposed reservoir on the Pembina river at Entwistle may reduce the amount of work required on the Paddle river. It could enhance the possibilities of tapping the Arctic watershed to supplement the rivers flowing eastward to the Hudson Bay, Mr. Solodzuk added.

Treasury Branch Savings Interest Rates Increased

Mr. C.G. Davey, Superintendent, Province of Alberta Treasury Branches, announced recently that Treasury Branch interest rates on all savings accounts are now raised to 4½%. This increased interest rate is retroactive to April 1, 1967, and is calculated on the minimum monthly balance, with drawing privileges.

Mr. Davey also announced that Treasury Branch Term Saving Certificates are now available on a five year term, with the minimum deposit reduced from $1,000 to $500 bearing interest at the rate of 5 1/4% per annum.

Centenary Journey

Young Alberta campers will be living history for awhile this summer as they participate in Centenary Journey, retracing the routes of the early voyagers and fur traders through Alberta.

Hundreds of delegates met recently in Toronto to finalize plans for the Canadian Camping Association's Centennial project for 400,000 young Canadian campers between 13 and 16 years old. More than 1,600 camps will be involved.

Partially financed by the Centennial Commission, Centenary Journey has three main objectives: to map the famous transcontinental water highways used for exploration and commerce during the 17th and 18th centuries; and to take the young campers over the actual routes, teaching them along the way the historical importance of the areas they cover; and to compile a quidebook, outlining the routes for future outdoor lovers.

The world's largest Japanese Garden is not in Japan, but in the southern Alberta city of Lethbridge, where it was built as a Centennial symbol of Japanese-Canadian friendship.

Beef Studies Conducted at Kinsella Ranch

Winter weight losses in beef cows under natural grazing conditions are similar in Hereford and hybrid herds.

Dr. R. T. Berg, Animal Science Department, University of Alberta says this fact is evident in studies conducted at the university's Kinsella Ranch where this aspect of a beef breeding project has been carried out since the winter of 1963-64.

Although the major objective of the project was to compare the relative progress from selection within a pure versus hybrid foundation, winter hardness in cows fed only a minimum of supplementary feed was also studied.

The hybrid foundation combines Aberdeen Angus, Galloway and Charolais breeding.

Dr. Berg says that difficulty is encountered in natural grazing of beef cows because of the extreme variability in winter weather conditions from year to year. Weight losses in cows and heifers reflect the relative severity of winters and the amount of supplemental feeding required. In the 1963-64 winter season there were 51 days in which the temperature dropped below zero degrees Fahrenheit. The following year there were 88 such days while in 1965-66 there were 60. The approximate cost of supplementary feed ranged from $7.00 to a high of $15.00 per head.

In mild winters, such as experienced in 1963-64, both herds wintered well with a minimum of supplementary feeding costs. However, in the severe year of 1964-65 the upper range figure for supplementation was not adequate with cows losing as much as 120 pounds of body weight. Supplementary feed valued at $15.00 per head was sufficient to keep weight losses very low during the 1965-66 winter.

According to the Alberta geneticist, weight losses most seriously affected yearling and young wet cows, resulting in difficult calving, weak calves and lower weaning weights.

Assuming that the cows enter the winter season in reasonably good condition, Dr. Berg recommends a feeding plan which will allow wet cows and yearlings to maintain their body weight while permitting weight losses in dry cows. This can be accomplished by feeding wet cows, heifers and dry cows which did not wean calves the previous summer in separate groups.

For the two groups in which it is desirable to maintain body weight, the amount of feed required has been found to be approximately 4 pounds of grain and ten pounds of reasonably good quality hay per day. Additional straw is also required to maintain weight when the temperature drops below zero degrees Fahrenheit.

This plan was followed with both herds at Kinsella in the 1966-67 winter season. Wet cows suffered only minor body weight losses of twenty-five pounds or less with dry cows losing between 160 to 180 lbs. with little supplemental feeding. At the conclusion of the winter season wet cows and dry cows had similar body weights.

The right-hand row of cucumbers was mulched with a 36-inch strip of 2 mil clear polyethylene. Total yield from 10 plants was 164 cucumbers (85 1/2 lb.) The left-hand row was not mulched--total yield was 75 cucumbers (40 1/2 lb.) This Marketeer variety was started in the greenhouse May 13 and planted in the field June 13.

Princess gladiolus 114 days after planting. The right-hand row was mulched with an 18 inch strip of 2 mil clear polyethylene. The left row was not mulched.

Lacombe Tests Show Mulching Improves Yield

Lacombe--Polyethylene mulching is not used as extensively as it could be even though its beneficial effects on maturity and productivity are well known, says CDA horticulture researcher H.T. Allen. Marked improvement in production with many crops can be achieved with mulching, he says. Indeed, with some areas and with some crops, mulching can mean the difference between success and failure.

At the federal Research Station at Lacombe, mulching has produced favorable results with cucumbers, citron, muskmelon, watermelon, pumpkin, squash, peppers, egg plants, bush beans, sweet corn, brussels sprouts, cauliflower, and gladioli. Melons, egg plants and peppers are borderline crops that produce a marketable product in most seasons with mulch, but are usually failures without it. Tomatoes have not responded well to mulching at Lacombe, but favorable results have been obtained in many other regions.

Cucumbers have been one of the most responsive crops. In 1966 transplants of the Marketeer variety mulched with a three-foot strip of 2 mil clear polyethylene, produced 164 marketable fruits from ten plants. A yield of 75 fruits was obtained from transplants without mulch and only four fruits from fields seeded without mulch.

Tests with gladioli have proven that six to eight days earlier flowering can be obtained with early and midseason varieties and four to seven days with late varieties, when clear polyethylene mulching is used.

For best results the recommended varieties and cultural practices for the area should be used in conjunction with the mulching material. Although clear polyethylene has proven to be slightly superior to the black, weed growth under the clear material may create a problem and extra care will have to be exercised to prevent lifting of the mulch.

For upright growing crops such as peppers, brussels sprouts, and gladioli an 18-inch strip of plastic has been satisfactory, but spreading crops such as cucumbers require a wider strip of at least 36 inches. In all instances the edges of the mulch must be held tight to the ground with soil or other means to prevent lifting by winds. Holes or cross-shaped slits large enough to accommodate the plants are cut at the time of seeding or planting, or as emergence occurs with seeded crops. A uniform spacing will facilitate handling.

Because the greatest benefit from mulching is obtained through faster germination and early growth the mulch should be laid before or immediately after planting or seeding.

The First Furrow

He reached the virgin prairie beyond the end of the railway line by a canvas-covered wagon or "prairie schooner" which he slept in if the weather was bad or the ground swampy. At other times, he slept in a tent. His first chore on reaching his location was to break enough ground to plant a crop. This established his ownership. He set up a pole at the edge of his plot, tied a cloth to it, directed his plow to it, and drove a parallel furrow beside the first one, back to the starting point. Not until his plowing and seeding was finished did he begin to build a permanent shelter.

The prairie pioneer in some ways had an easier life than the first settlers in Eastern Canada. He did not have to carve his farm out of virgin forest, or carry his grain to the mill on his back over rugged, winding trails. He could haul it to the nearest elevator by wagon across open land. But his home was often many miles from his nearest neighbours. The loneliness was bad in summer and almost unendurable in winter; some of the early settlers gave up and pulled out. But by 1911, immigration to Canada had swelled to nearly one-third of a million per year and most of them were settling on the prairies.

Farewell Party Held Saturday

On Saturday evening friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Nelson gathered at the Elks Hall to bid them farewell and extend best wishes in their move. Bob and Lorne have purchased the dealership of the Texaco Bulk Station at Grande Prairie and begin their new business June 1st.

During the evening of visiting and dancing Rev. E. Martin presented the couple with wall plaques and Centennial trays. A lovely lunch was served by the Elks.

Bob and Lorne came to Drayton Valley six years ago buying the Texaco Service Station with Morley joining later. In June 1963 Lorne, with his brother Harvey, branched out into the appliance business, starting the Northern Video Electronics store. Morley will manage the Texaco Station here and Harvey will be in charge of Northern Video Electronics.

Local anglers took advantage of the first days of fine weather last week to hit the streams and lakes in force.

The first long weekend of the summer season saw many families out for overnight trips. Streams in the immediate vicinity were also visited by a number of those who stayed home over the holiday.

The Pembina has yielded quite a few pickerel according to weekend reports and a number of good sized jacks have been taken at Bear Lake.

According to Al Walton, a 3½ lb. pickerel taken from the Pembina River was shown in his store along with two Bear Lake jacks that weighed in at 9 lbs. 7 ozs. and 10 lbs. 3 ozs.

Trophies for prize fish and game animals in the annual derby sponsored by the Pembina Oilfield Fish and Game Association are now on display in the window of Al's Sports Shop as a reminder to anglers to have that big fish weighted in before its consigned to the pan. Hunters, when the season rolls
